

A. Ridgway & Sons Shoe Factory

Delanco, NJ

1881 - 1928

Ridgway's original 1885 frame shoe factory building after its expansion. It was later replaced by a brick structure.

A. Ridgway & Sons Shoe Factory was a business very important to the economy of the town. Andress Ridgway, whose grand-daughter Miss Lizette Ridgway lived at Franklin and Pine Streets, started a shoe factory in 1881 in his residence on Ash Street at the corner of Rancocas Avenue. Initially there were three employees other than himself. Three or four years later, his son, A. C. Ridgway, became a partner.

The business prospered, and Ridgway erected a frame building in 1885 and later made addition to it. In 1912, the firm replaced the wooden structure with a large three-story brick building.

The firm manufactured children's and infants' shoes. By 1907, the company's splendidly equipped plant produced around 360,000 pairs of shoes a year. The firm employed about 90 skilled laborers with an annual payroll of about $65,000. At one time, Ridgway employed as many as 145 workers.

In 1907, the Burlington County Press noted, “Their plant is perhaps the best appointed in the county.” Most of the shoes were shipped to New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and other large cities, and even to Cuba.

On May 10, 1922, the factory workers gave Andress Ridgway a special celebration for his 90th birthday. At 4 o’clock in the afternoon, they shut down the machinery and all the workers assembled on the first floor. There they presented Ridgway with a fine bathrobe, a 5-pound box of chocolates, and several other articles, including a walking stick with an electric light in the handle.

Group photo of the employees in 1912.

The firm continued operations in its newer brick building until the business closed in the late 1920s. The building was sold on Dec. 18, 1928, and in 1929, the Atlantic Paper Tube Company moved into the premises.

In the 1960s, Charles Kalmes bought the building for back taxes and repaired it, using it for storage of boats and for outboard marine work. It was next owned by Albert Gault, who used it for the same purposes. The building is currently owned and operated by Harold F. Fisher & Sons / Delanco Tarp, which manufactures custom covers, pool covers, boat and other vehicle covers.

The Delanco Story- Its Past and Present, The Delanco Bicentennial Book Committee, Delanco, New Jersey, The Kingswood Group, 1977, pages 27, 28, 29.

Some photos from the J. Lester Daniels Collection in the Delanco Township Photo Archive.

An infant shoe and last from the Ridgway Shoe Factory shown with a cobbler’s stand and two buttonhooks from the period. The shoe is displayed courtesy of Vincent Colonna of Delanco.

Andress Ridgway

Founder of A. Ridgway & Son

SHOE factory owner Andress Ridgway, born May 10, 1832, was nearly 92 when, on March 16, 1924, he held his great-grandson, Andress Owen Ridgway.

The History of My Life - Andress Ridgway

"I was born in Chester, Pa., May 10th, 1832. My father, Andress Ridgway was a seafaring man, born in Gloucester Co., NJ. My mother was of Irish parentage. My grandfather's name was also Andress Ridgway and a member of the Society of Friends at Mickleton, NJ.

When about three years of age, my father, who traded south in the winter, was lost outside of the Capes of the Delaware. My mother having died six months before, I was adopted by a family living in Chester by the name of McLarne with whom I followed the water on the Delaware. I left Chester, September 1st, 1852, moved to Bridgeboro, where I learned the shoe making trade, with my brother Thomas.

I was married Nov. 5th, 1855, to Meriam Wilmerton, daughter of Abraham and Mary Wilmerton of Willingboro Township. Our first year of married life was spent at Beverly, NJ, moving to Delanco in the spring of 1857, have resided here ever since, and have been a daily reader of the Public Ledger.

I have three living children: Miss Laura V. Ridgway, Andress C. and Mrs. Harry Cook. Was a charter member of the Methodist Episcopal Church organized in 1857, was Superintendent of this Sunday school for 37 years and still active in the Church work at present writing (1917).

In politics was a Republican for some years, for the last thirty years I have been a Prohibitionist. Thirty six years ago I started to manufacture children's turn shoes with my son A. C. Ridgway as a partner, still taking an active interest in the business."

Signed my eighty-fifth birthday, Thursday, May 10, 1917
Delanco, NJ

From the Dobbins Memorial United Methodist Church, Union Avenue, Delanco, NJ. Church Historian Alice M. Smith – 2009

From the History of The Andress Ridgway Family in the U.S.A.

Copied by Rev. F. Elwood Perkins

Andress Ridgway learned shoe making from his half brother Thomas of Bridgeboro. He worked in factories in Burlington, NJ until in 1879-1880 the Stokley Company went on strike. He then started to do custom shoe work from Philadelphia.

In 1880 he started to make shoes himself. During first three months he was a partner with a Mr. Martin Beekler. At the end of 3 months he bought out Mr. Beekler. He continued the business with assistance of his two (2) daughters Laura and Anna. A few years later he took his son Andress Crittenden into the business. Harry Cook, husband of Anna entered the business in 1894.

The business began to decline about 1921 to a place where it seemed unprofitable and finally closed in 1929.

Photo showing both the frame and the brick shoe factory structures at the foot of Ash Street on the Rancocas Creek.

Group photo of the shoemakers at their benches.

At peak production period the A. Ridgway & Son Company employed about 90 to 100 people. The custom shoe work referred to above included many for children between the years 1900 and 1929 as well as for adults.

This booklet is a production of the Delanco Historic Preservation Advisory Board
770 Coopertown Road, Delanco NJ 08075
www.delancotownship.com